

The Best Habitat is Unlogged Forests

Join Mike Garrity to learn about the Northern Rockies Ecosystem and why unlogged forests provide the best habitat for native species and what happens to wildlife habitat when you log and fragment forests.

About Mike Garrity

Mike Garrity is the Executive Director of the Alliance for the Wild Rockies. The Alliance for the Wild Rockies is one of the most successful groups defending wildlands and intact ecosystems in the Northern Rockies. Their successful lawsuits have protected tens of hundreds of thousands of acres of public lands from roading, livestock grazing, and logging as well as protecting habitat for endangered species like wolverine, bull trout and grizzlies.
